 mon mallow; the leaves are rougher, and the plant grows almost shrubby. Miller ROSEMARY. n. f. [rosmarinus, Lat.] Is a verticillate plant, with a labiated flower, consisting of one leaf, whose upper lip or crest is cut into two parts, and turns up backward with crooked stamina or chives; but the under lip or beard is divided into three parts, the middle segment being hollow like a spoon; out of the two or three-toothed flower-cup rises the point, attended, as it were, by four embryos, which afterward turn to so many seeds that are roundish, and are inclosed in the flower-cup. Miller Bedlam beggars, with roaring voices, Strike in their numb'd and mortify'd bare arms Pins, wooden pricks, nails, sprigs of rosemary;
 And with this horrible object, from low farms, Inforce their charity. Shakespeare, King Lear Around their cell
 Set rows of rosemary with flowering stem. Dryden Rosemary is small, but a very odoriferous shrub; the principal use of it is to perfume chambers, and in decoctions for washing. Mortimer's Husbandry
 The neighbours
 Follow'd with wistful look the damsel bier, Sprung rosemary the lads and lasses bore. Gay in the common alembicks; also a crooked scissars, which the surgeons use in some cases for the dilatation of wounds. Quin RO'SY. adj. [rosus, Lat.] Resembling a rose in bloom, beauty, colour, or fragrance.

 When the rosy ring'd morning fair, Weary of aged Tithon's sallow bed,
 Had sped her purple robe through dewy air. Fa. Queen
 A smile that glow'd Celestial rosy red, love's proper hue. Milton Fairest blossom! do not slight That age, which you may know so soon;
 The rosy morn resigns her light,
 And milder glory to the noon. Waller
 The rosy finger'd morn appears,
 And from her mantle shakes her tears,
 In promise of a glorious day.
 As Thessalian steeds the race adorn,
 So rosy colour'd Helen is the pride Of Lacedemon, and of Greece beside. Dryden
 While blooming youth and gay delight Sit on thy rosy cheeks confest, Thou hast, my dear, undoubted right To triumph o'er this destin'd breast. Prior To ROT. v. n. [noan, Saxon; rotten, Dutch.] To putrify; to lose the cohesion of its parts.
 A man may rot even here.
 From hour to hour we ripe and ripe,
 And then from hour to hour we rot and rot. Shakespeare
